

Pink Ribbon Riders visit the Jackson Hole Hill Climb and Freestyle show last weekend and help area breast cancer patients with assistance.

The Snow Devils once again out did themselves with an amazing hill climb event this past weekend in Jackson Hole, Wyoming. Spectators were also treated to a freestyle Show on Saturday evening in which the Pink Ribbon Riders were invited to publicly speak about breast cancer and how it effects both men and women.

During the public appearance Pink Ribbon Riders gave financial assistance to Judy Kreski from Washington and also made a donation of $300 to the Jackson Hole Breast Cancer Survivor Group. The Survivor Group will be awarded with $300 to use towards a new "Buddy" Program set up for patients that live to far away to attend support group meetings.

Pink Ribbon Riders also announced assistance for Lea Caravello from the Jackson area that was to be presented that evening. A sad announcement was shared with the crowd at the freestyle event that Lea, age 41, lost her battle to breast cancer a few days prior. Assistance will be given to help her family as Lea leaves behind husband Gary and 17 year old child.

Promoter Tyler from Octane Addictions surprised the crowd, and Pink Ribbon Riders, with a donation of $500 to the cause. With more excitement Colorado Sledstyle and Bi-Polar Racing added $500 each to the public donation. With a surprise total of $1,500 donations we cannot say thank you enough.

Pink Ribbon Riders would like to thank the Jackson Hole Snow Devils for their support in making this past weekend happen not only for us, but for those that our breast cancer fund assists.

Special thank you to Tyler and Sara and everyone at Octane Addictions for allowing us to publicly speak as this disease does not only affect those diagnosed but everyone that loves them.

This weekend come ride for those in need on April 4th & 5th at Togwotee Mountain Lodge for the 1st Annual Wyoming Snow Run. Visit www.pinkribbonriders.com for more information.
